1:30 PM	2:15 PM	A Science Trek - Strange New Worlds - Wolf 359 is well-known in Star Trek as the locale for a disastrous confrontation with the Borg, but now astronomers are beginning to search this red dwarf star for signs of planets using the Kepler Space Telescope. Caltech astronomers Dr. Jessie Christiansen, Dr. Philip Hopkins, and Dr. Robert Hurt discuss the scientific reality behind an increasingly bizarre collection of exoplanets that rival the strangest places Kirk, Picard, or Janeway have ever visited. "Planet hunter" Christiansen, a researcher with the NASA Exoplanet Science Institute, describes—among others—the doomed WASP-12b, an egg-shaped planet orbiting so close to its parent star that its atmosphere is being consumed; or HD 189733 b, a bright blue planet where winds blow up to 5,400 mph, and it rains glass—sideways. Hopkins, a theoretical astrophysicist sheds light on how planets, stars, and galaxies form while Hurt, visualization scientist, describes how he turns astronomical data into illustrations that help us visualize and understand far-off space. 10:45 AM	11:30 AM	A Science Trek - The Search for Class M Planets - Imagine visiting a small red star surrounded by seven Earth-sized planets, each of which could potentially have liquid water. Amazingly, this is not a story concept for Star Trek Discovery, but a real science discovery made earlier this year by NASA’s Spitzer Space Telescope. While three of these worlds lie in the star’s so-called “habitable zone,” determining which exoplanets could (or do) support life is far more complex than making a simple sensor scan. Caltech scientists Jessie Christensen , Philip Hopkins , and Robert Hurt discuss what we even mean by “habitable,” and what makes a universe, a galaxy or a planet hospitable or hostile to life. Add Phil Plait???		Brasilia 4-6

11:15 AM	12:00 PM	The Make-Up Artistry of Joel Harlow - With the release of Star Trek Beyond in 2016, viewers were given a spectacular visual thrill as a whole host of new aliens made their appearance for the first time in the rebooted franchise. At the heart of the process of bringing these breathtaking intergalactic species to life was Academy Award-winning make-up artist Joel Harlow. Together with his team of amazingly talented creatives, Harlow set to work on creating aliens from over 50 different races for the film and documented the entire creative process for each one in exhaustive detail, from preliminary sketches to final make-up application. In his Star Trek Las Vegas debut, Joel will discuss his work on this blockbuster film and showcase art from his upcoming book, Star Trek Beyond – The Makeup Artistry of Joel Harlow . Joel will be signing autographs on a complimentary basis at the Away Mission Booth in the Vendors Room at 3:30 pm as his schedule allows.		Pavilion

5:30 PM	6:15 PM	Actors' Careers Beyond Star Trek: How Has It Influenced The Franchise? - Hosted by Tyler Orton and Cam Smith of podcast Subspace Transmissions. How have the actors' careers beyond Star Trek influenced the franchise? Everyone already knows about Patrick Stewart in the X-Men films or William Shatner in The Twilight Zone, so instead our lecturers want to examine standout performances in under-recognized projects. Our moderators have been digging deep throughout the Star Trek stars' filmographies for performances that can be tied back to their iconic roles on Star Trek. · Did Nichelle Nichols draw inspiration for her mercurial role in 1974's Truck Turner from a trip to the Mirror universe seven years earlier? · Did Brent Spiner's co-lead role in HBO's Golden Globe-winning Introducing Dorothy Dandridge require the touch of an android with a positronic brain? · Was Dominic Keating already prepared to tend to the armory on the NX-01 after serving on the Watchers Council in Buffy The Vampire Slayer ? In many cases these lesser-known roles exhibit kernels of ideas exhibited in their Trek performance or minor facets of their iconic characters.		Brasilia 4-6

9:15 PM		DOORS OPEN FOR RAT PACK PERFORMANCE		Pavilion
9:45 PM		Creation Entertainment presents: The Star Trek Rat Pack! We end the convention with the traditional live performance by the talented and hilarious STAR TREK RAT PACK (an ever updated and changing Star Trek themed parody of the original Rat Pack Vegas nightclub act), doing wonderful material. This show has the intent of sending you going home with an extra happy feeling! And by the way a fan wrote to us suggesting we end with a musical show rather than autographing so fans leave on a "high" and it definitely works with these talented entertainers at the helm! THE STAR TREK RAT PACK is starring: Max Grodenchik (lyricist and producer), Ethan Phillips, Vaughn Armstrong, Jeffrey Combs, Casey Biggs and musical accompaniment by Bill Burchell and Brent Bristow THIS MUSICAL PERFORMANCE IS FREE TO ALL IN ATTENDANCE as a special thank you from Creation Entertainment to all our fellow fans and in honor of Gene Roddenberry's enduring legacy to us all. THANK YOU GENE for giving us all STAR TREK as a part of our lives!		Pavilion
